UP

THERE'S NO DOUBT the main function of joinery is to provide somewhere to stash your stuff, but if done thoughtfully, it can become a beautiful visual detail, too. Nowadays, more than ever, it is important as most of us are living within smaller footprints with a greater need to optimise the space we have. Particularly for urbanites, long gone are the luxuries of large garages, attic spaces and a shed out the back where you can store all your belongings. To house – and sometimes conceal – all those essential items, what you need is good joinery.

Multipurpose piece
